

Information Leaflet for Exchange Students within the Framework of Indo-German University Cooperation
(Process A – Short term exchange)

Valid as of September 2022

German and Indian universities facilitating exchange programs within the framework of Indo-German co-operations, may apply through the Academic Evaluation Centre New Delhi (APS India) for an APS group verification. This is applicable to those students who will not be awarded an academic degree from a German university. The duration of stay in Germany is limited to the duration of the exchange program.

The Indian exchange student must be enrolled in a bachelor or a master program at the Indian university that is part of the Indo-German cooperation. The program must guarantee direct access to the reciprocal German university.

The requirements for application to Process-A are as follows:

The application documents for this process must be submitted by either the German or the Indian institution. It is mandatory to submit valid documents pertaining to the cooperation between the two universities (MOU). Indian candidates are admitted as exchange students to the German partner university, as prescribed in the common Memorandum of Understanding between both universities.

Application procedure:

1. Submission of application by the German / Indian university:

The German/Indian university must inform the APS via email (director@aps-india.de) about the details of the cooperation agreement. They must submit a list of the candidates selected for the exchange program along with contact details of the concerned representatives of both Indian and German university. APS will then assign a Group Number to the respective universities.

2. Online Registration:

Selected students must register with APS India stating their assigned Group Number under 'Process A' through which they can access their profile on the APS India website. Each student must print and personally sign the completed application form. The application form must then be attached to the individual application documents submitted by the university to APS India.

Kindly ensure that all information regarding educational details is correctly filled in!

3. Payment details:

Each applicant shall be charged an individual fee of 18,000/- INR. The fees for all participants of a group must be paid collectively and then be wired to the APS account mentioning the Group Number. The applications will be processed once the collective fee has been credited to the APS account.

All applications must be submitted together!

The current status of the application can be checked via the students' profile on APS India's website. After successful completion of the verification process, the student may apply for the student visa process directly through VFS India (<https://visa.vfsglobal.com/ind/en/deu/>)

Applicants enrolled for exchange programs do not receive an individual APS certificate. APS will inform the concerned German universities about the verification results via email. It is therefore imperative that the contact details of the respective university representatives are correct and up to date.

It is not possible to change the university in Germany for the duration of the exchange program. Candidates who have received a visa under 'Process A' and wish to change the course of study or the framework of the program during their stay in Germany need to submit a written consent for the discontinuation of the current program from the concerned German university.

Exceptions:

Candidates who failed to obtain an APS certificate through the individual application process due to fraudulent documents cannot apply for 'Process A'.
